This series of art has been published into a full color, hand-signed, hard-bound limited edition book of 666 copies. This largely wordless book visually narrates the part fictional and part non-fictional story of legendary blues musician, Robert Johnson.

The book is cloth hard bound with silver inlay book title on the cover. The interior pages have been proofed carefully to match the color and values of the original art and printed on 80# Xpressions paper. A special red book jacket was produced for the first 333 copies. The book contains 44 pages and each is hand numbered and signed by the artist on a special page printed within the book. The book may be personalized if requested.

The illustrations in this book have been accepted 15 times from all the major illustration competitions including the Society of Illustrators, the Society of Illustrators of Los Angeles, American Illustration, Spectrum and 3X3. One of the images, "Got Down On My Knees and Prayed" has also won a prestigious Silver Medal from the Society of Illustrators of New York and is currently under review to be included in the American Museum of Illustration's permanent collection in New York. Please visit the AWARDS section of this site to view the awarded images.
